Dear Amy,

It was certainly an honor and privilege to have Cherie Adams minister at Hillside on May 31 and June 1, 2003. It is obvious that Cherie has a sincere desire to share Jesus with the lost and the hurting. How refreshing it is to see a person who loves Jesus so much that she was willing to step out of the "luxury liner" of Avalon and onto the water with her Lord.

I believe that Cherie's personal testimony is a wonderful example of God's grace. The Holy Spirit truly used the trauma in Cherie's life to minister to us at Hillside. In fact, several came forward for prayer. We saw salvation, deliverance, and healing around the altar. This is what ministry is all about. Cherie is definitely sensitive to the Holy Spirit and I believe she is listening for the heartbeat of God. I am convinced that Cherie came to Hillside to minister – and that is exactly what she did. She did not come to just perform.

Not only was I impressed with her desire to minister, but also I was impressed with her personality and attitude. Even though Cherie is a popular and professional Christian music artist, she is also a normal, everyday person. Her willingness to open up and just be herself was refreshing. My wife and I enjoyed getting to know Cherie on a personal basis. We discovered that she is a wonderful person who loves Jesus and is fun to be around.

It was a pleasure working with Cherie Adams Ministry. We hope our paths will cross again someday. In the meantime, we will continue to pray for Cherie Adams Ministry and will support her in any and every way possible.

May Jesus continue to bless your ministry as you follow Him,
